Brintons

Project: Seattle Convention Center
Details: 13,500 SY Axminster

Brintons collaborated with LMN Architects on the new addition to the Seattle Convention Center.

Summit opened its doors in January 2023 nearly doubling the Seattle Convention Center's size. With a ballroom of almost 60,000 square feet, Brintons produced a pattern that would respond to the scale of the space. Utilizing Brintons High Definition (HD) Weave, the LMN Architects team chose 32 colors for the design.

The convention center has a rich, neutral color palette that incorporates a unique array of sustainable, local, and regional materials such as wood, natural stone, blackened hot rolled steel, and terrazzo.

Brintons custom broadloom carpet can be found in Seattle Convention Center's Summit Level-5 ballroom, Pre-function, Terrace Suite, and Signature Room.

"The Brintons team was patient. They were wise enough to know when to lead us and to know when to listen to us. And I feel like we asked a lot and pushed Brintons to provide us with samples for client viewing that were outside the normal provision path."
